Listing of Claims:

Claims 1-12 (Cancelled).

Claim 13 (Currently amended): A disposable toilet-box for cats, comprising:

a rectangular box with a bottom and four vertical faces; wherein the back face is longer than the side faces and the frontal face, such that the back face is adapted to form the cover of the box; wherein the side faces and the frontal face comprise an outcoming ply at the same height dividing the side faces and the frontal face in an upper part and a lower part;

characterized in that the top edge of the back face has a shape adapted for fixing the cover where it is closed; oblique plies are provided in the upper part of the side faces, respectively, starting from the meeting point of the respective ~~horizontal~~ outcoming ply with the back face of the box; oblique plies are provided in the upper part of the frontal face at the meeting point of the ~~horizontal~~ outcoming ply with the side face; and wherein the top edge of the back face is shaped of three curves, of which are two sharp curves at the corners and a lower plane curve in the middle between the sharp curves[.];

wherein the outcoming ply of the frontal face is adapted to receive the lower plane curve of the top edge of the back face, thereby securing the back face in a closed position.

Claim 14 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 1, characterized in that the bottom comprising four flaps, tow larger flaps covering the whole bottom surface and two smaller flaps foldable between the larger flaps covering together the bottom surface.

Claim 15 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 1, characterized in that it is made of carton.

Claim 16 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 1, characterized in that the toilet-box is self-standing.

Claim 17 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 1, characterized in that it is made of biodegradable material.

Claim 18 (Cancelled).

Claim 19 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 1, characterized in that the box is filled with a material selected from the group consisting of hygienic litter and sand.

Claim 20 (Currently amended): A disposable toilet-box for cats, comprising:

a rectangular box having a bottom and four vertical faces including a back face and frontal face, the back face is longer than the side faces and the frontal face, such that the back face is adapted to form the cover of the box;
wherein the side faces, the back face, and the frontal face each comprise an outcoming ply at the same height dividing the side faces, the back face, and the frontal face in an upper part and a lower part, and wherein the side faces, and the frontal face each comprise a flap;
characterized in that the top edge of the back face has a shape adapted for fixing the cover where it is closed;
oblique plies are provided in the upper part of the side faces, respectively, starting from the meeting point of the respective ~~horizontal~~ outcoming ply with the back face of the box;
oblique plies are provided in the upper part of the frontal face at the meeting point of the ~~horizontal~~ outcoming ply with the side face;
wherein the bottom comprising four flaps, tow larger flaps covering the whole bottom surface and two smaller flaps foldable between the larger flaps covering together the bottom surface; and wherein the top edge of the back face is shaped of three curves, of which are two sharp curves at the corners and a lower plane curve in the middle between the sharp curves[.]; wherein the flap of the frontal face is adapted to receive the lower plane curve of the top edge of the back face, thereby securing the back face in a closed position.

Claim 21 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box for cats according to claim 20, wherein the three curves being configured to make it look like a cat's head having two ears and a brow, the lower plane curve is the brow and the two sharp curves are the ears.

Claim 22 (Cancelled).

Claim 23 (Currently amended): The disposable toilet-box for cats according to ~~claim 22~~ 21, wherein the ears are adapted to keep the oblique plies of the side face into position and the pressure exerted by the oblique plies of the side face on the extremities of the oblique ply of the frontal face making the latter resistant against some opposition of the cover.

Claim 24 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 20, characterized in that it is made of carton.

Claim 25 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 20, characterized in that the toilet-box is self-standing.

Claim 26 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 20, characterized in that it is made of biodegradable material.

Claim 27 (Currently amended): A disposable toilet-box for cats, comprising:
a rectangular box having a bottom and four vertical faces including a back face and frontal face, the back face is longer than the side faces and the frontal face, such that the back face is adapted to form the cover of the box;
wherein the side faces, the back face, and the frontal face each comprise an outcoming ply at the same height dividing the side faces, and wherein the side faces, and the frontal face each comprise a flap;
characterized in that the top edge of the back face has a shape adapted for fixing the cover where it is closed;
oblique plies are provided in the upper part of the side faces, respectively, starting from the meeting point of the respective ~~horizontal~~ outcoming ply with the back face of the box;

oblique plies are provided in the upper part of the frontal face at the meeting point of the ~~horizontal~~ outcoming ply with the side face;
wherein the bottom comprising four flaps, tow larger flaps covering the whole bottom surface and two smaller flaps foldable between the larger flaps covering together the bottom surface;
wherein the top edge of the back face is shaped of three curves configured to resemble a cat's head, the three curves comprising two sharp curves at the corners resembling ears and a lower plane curve in the middle between the sharp curves resembling a brow; and wherein the ~~oblique ply flap~~ of the frontal face is adapted to receive the brow, thereby securing the back face in a closed position[.]; wherein the ears are adapted to keep the oblique plies of the side face into position and the pressure exerted by the oblique plies of the side face on the extremities of the oblique ply of the frontal face making the latter resistant against some opposition of the cover.

Claim 28 (Cancelled).

Claim 29 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 27, characterized in that it is made of carton.

Claim 30 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 27, characterized in that the toilet-box is self-standing.

Claim 31 (Previously presented): The disposable toilet-box according to claim 27, characterized in that it is made of biodegradable material.
